

Fred Vandivort - The Real Noah's Ark!

Nowadays when people mention Noah's Ark, they are apt to conjure up the image of a cute little boat in some toy store window, chock full of grinning animals. That was not Fred Vandivort's vision. Fred pictured the massive, very functional craft designed by God, built by Noah and described precisely in the Book of Genesis. The same ark that carried the people and animals that were to survive the Great Flood and fill the world anew. And that is the ark that Fred Vandivort built...an exact table-sized replica of Noah's handiwork, complete with animals built to scale. Quite simply, it is a work of faith, and Fred is happy to display it to church and civic groups, along with a 45-minute slide presentation by the Institution of Creation Research. Now, as a secular society attempts to chip away at the foundations of our faith, Fred's project is both necessary and inspiring. Fred Vandivort is a deacon at Country Estates and has recently been ordained to the Gospel Ministry. He recently spent several weeks as interim pastor of a mission church in Nome, Alaska.
